

Message from Amanda Ewington

Here are some links for Davidson Learns members who might be interested in learning more about Ukraine from Ukrainian voices and Ukrainian perspectives after my talk this afternoon.

Books

- Serhii Plokhy, The Gates of Europe: A History of Ukraine (Basic Books, 2015). Plokhy is the director of the Harvard Ukrainian Research Institute and a prolific scholar of Ukrainian history. This book is geared to a general audience.
- Marci Shore, Ukrainian Night: An Intimate History of Revolution (Yale UP, 2018). Shore is a history professor at Yale. The book focuses on the 2013-2014 Ukrainian revolution.
- Plokhy's list of the best five books on Ukraine and Russia.

Websites/News

- The Harvard Ukrainian Research Institute (HURI) has an incredibly helpful page for learning more about Russia's war on Ukraine and Ukrainian history, including a FAQ section. Useful for the general public!
- Timothy Snyder (Yale) offers a helpful overview of Ukrainian history here.
- ASEES (Assoc. for Slavic, East European, & Eurasian Studies) has a unified calendar of events on Ukraine that are open to the public via Zoom or webinars.
- Follow current events at the Kyiv Independent, a reputable English-language newspaper.
- For top-notch reporting on Russia and Ukraine by journalists who have had to flee Russia, but continue with their important work by keeping the editorial offices in Estonia, see Meduza's English-language site. Also, Meduza needs support. Like all independent media in Russia, they have been labeled a "foreign agent" and are now banned in Russia. They need funding from readers outside Russia to stay afloat. They continue to get real news into Russia via the Russian version of their site for Russians connecting via VPN and via their Telegram channel.
- Follow my "Ukraine" Twitter list for posts from journalists, policy people, politicians, and others with regional expertise, some of whom are on the ground in Ukraine.

Help Ukraine:

- See the Razom for Ukraine link tree for ways you can make a difference.
- World Central Kitchen/ Chefs for Ukraine to help feed Ukrainians.
- This Washington Post article also lists ways you can help.

Presented by Amanda Ewington, PhD

RUSSIA'S INVASION OF UKRAINE:

PUTIN'S HISTORICAL DISTORTIONS

Thursday, March 17
3:00 pm
Zoom